

Announcement

First Orientation Course for Hindi Teachers in Foreign Countries

18 October – 1st November 2010

Mahatma Gandhi Antarrashtriya Hindi Vishwavidyalaya (Mahatma Gandhi International Hindi University) was established by an Act of Indian Parliament in 1997 with an object to facilitate Hindi becoming an International language and to generate reading material in various disciplines of knowledge in this language and also provide facilities for higher research and teaching through Hindi in subjects like Comparative Literature , Linguistics , Non-Violence and Peace, Dalit and Tribal Studies, Buddhist Studies, Women Studies, Diaspora Studies, Translation & Interpretation, Anthropology, Forensic Sciences, Film and Theatre Studies, etc. The very name of the university reflects its firm commitment to the Gandhian philosophy as a guiding factor of entire curriculum. Keeping in view the ground realities and the fact that India is a fast growing economy and on the threshold of becoming an international business hub, the University has started courses in Hindi Language for foreign students also, which include functional, literary and cultural aspects.

Amongst several multidimensional objects of the University, one is to strengthen various institutes and the departments imparting the knowledge of Hindi language and literature throughout the world by updating them in teaching methodology and techniques, as well as with the most relevant study material. With this mandate, the University has decided to organize orientation and refresher courses for the teachers of such international centers at a regular basis.

As a part of this endeavor, the University announces its first orientation course for the Hindi teachers of international community. The two weeks course is scheduled in the second half of October this year. University will provide accommodation and meals in its Father Camille Bulke International Hostel, to and fro inland travel cost to reach to the university to all the international participants along with study material as well. However, the participants will have to bear the cost of their international travelling.

The course can accommodate maximum 15 participants at a time;
Last date for nomination: 31st August 2010.

The university reserves the right to increase or decrease the number of participants in special circumstances.

Contact for further detail:

Ravi Chaturvedi, Ph.D.
Coordinator, Foreign Students' Courses Committee
Professor, Department of Theatre and Film Studies
Email: ravicvdi@gmail.com
Phone: +91 93140 53883